Education: Bachelor of Science in business administration, Centenary College of Louisiana; Juris Doctorate, University of Texas School of Law

Current job responsibilities: Shareholder in litigation section

What is a skill set that sets you apart from others in your field? Just try to make hard work and smart work coincide as much as possible

When did you hit your stride? Our daughter's arrival clarified a lot of what was truly important to our family.

Of what career achievements are you most proud? I got a (bogus) criminal charge dismissed against a client of mine when I was interning for an indigent defense clinic in law school. I also helped to get a jury verdict in a commercial case for a client who is about the nicest guy you ever want to know. In both cases, I felt like the system — however tedious and time-consuming — worked.

What gets you up in the morning? Our radiant daughter, Sophia Louise

What keeps you up at night? Our radiant daughter, Sophia Louise

Something most people would never suspect about you: How long it would take me to come up with an answer to this question

First job ever (before college) and what it taught you: I worked for a survey firm in high school asking people in person and over the phone about their opinions about all kinds of different things. It taught me that everyone has an opinion, and many times, it's not what you would think.

Favorite quote or motto: "Success is not final, failure is not fatal: It is the courage to continue that counts."
— Winston Churchill
